

BEING TRENDY IN THE DIGITAL AGE: HOW TO CAPTURE ATTENTION AND CREATE DESIRABILITY ON SOCIAL MEDIA?

INTRO

THE PARADOX OF 2026

- We've never had so much content
- We've never had so little attention available
- Consumers have no shortage of new brands to discover, they lack time

So why do some brands become desirable while others remain invisible despite similar products?

WHAT DEVELOPMENTS?

Before: brands controlled attention...

Social media was much less saturated.
The brands published very little.
There were fewer creators.
The formats were simpler.

The result: often all it took to gain visibility was a good product, a nice photo and a bit of media budget.

The supply of content has exploded.

Every minute, thousands of pieces of content are published.
The creators produce daily.
The media have become content producers.
All the brands have started communicating.
The user, however, still only has 24 hours in a day.
The supply of content has exploded. Not our attention span.

...so the platforms have changed the rules.

The platforms have one objective:
Retain users for as long as possible.

They give attention to those who deserve it.

Previously, the media allowed for the distribution of content. Today, it is the quality of the content that allows for distribution.

WHAT IMPACT DOES IT HAVE TODAY?

Attention has become the rarest resource.

Your publication is no longer compared to that of your competitor.

It is compared to:
on Netflix,
to Léna Situations,
to a cat video,
to a fashion designer
to a friend.

You are competing with the entire internet.

Consequence for fashion brands:

The question is therefore no longer:

"Is our content beautiful? Does it accurately reflect our image?"

More :

- "Does he deserve someone's attention?"

LAVA VERSUS EGGS

THE DOSE

We only stick with a video if it evokes an emotion.

- LEARN
- LAUGH
- CRY
- ANGER
- SADNESS
- CURIOSITE
- SURPRISE
- MEMBERSHIP
- DESIR
- FEAR
- SATISFACTION
-

→
AND STRANGELY...
EVERY EMOTION
BECOMES A KPI
→

- CURIOSITY → stay until the end
- SURPRISE → share
- LAUGH → like / send to a friend
- IDENTIFICATION → comment / tag someone
- INDIGNATION → commenter
- FOMO → register / buy / visit
- INSPIRATION → save
- WONDER → share / follow
- NOSTALGIA → comment / share
- DESIRE → conversion

02 WHY PEOPLE REALLY STOP TO LOOK AT CONTENT

THE GOOD STUDENT: XELITO

CURIOSITY → stay until the end

SURPRISE → share

DESIRE → conversion

We are faced with a video that offers a challenge, full of twists and turns, suspense, but with a prize at the end.

The perfect cocktail to keep you hooked until the very end of the content

02 WHY PEOPLE REALLY STOP TO LOOK AT CONTENT

THE GOOD STUDENT: LOEWE

CURIOSITY → stay until the end

INSPIRATION → save

IDENTIFICATION → comment / lovebrand

We tell a story, without words, short, open to interpretation, and all this in collaboration.

With all of this combined, it's impossible to flop.

02 WHY PEOPLE REALLY STOP TO LOOK AT CONTENT

THE GOOD STUDENT: MATTHIS

INSPIRATION → save

FOMO → save / buy / visit

IDENTIFICATION → comment / tag someone

We rely on relatable problems to provide tangible, clear and aesthetically pleasing solutions.

We want one thing at the end of this video: to buy

THE 3 PILLARS OF DESIRABILITY

Faces before logos

We become attached to people more than to brands.

Who creates?
Who can imagine?
Who holds this vision?

We become human in many forms:

Founders, art directors,
salespeople, craftsmen, creators,
clients...

Evidence rather than promises

Everyone talks about its quality and expertise, but we want to SEE.

Content that shows:

- manufacturing
- the trials
- the mistakes
- the decisions

Trust is born from transparency.

To be part of the culture

Networks are cultural spaces.

Desirable brands know how to participate in this culture.
But by speaking the language of their audience.

- repurposing a format
- to jump into a conversation
- collaborate with a creator

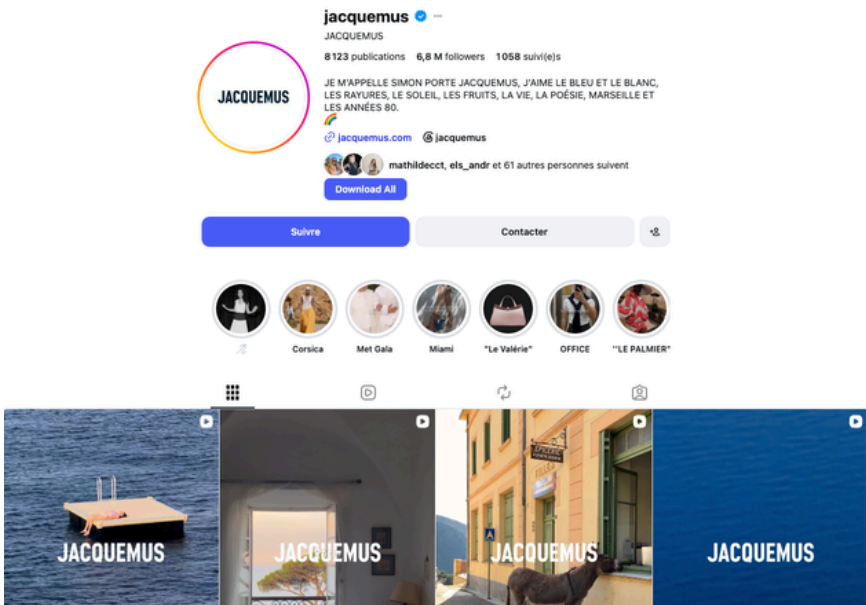

THE 3 PILLARS OF DESIRABILITY

Faces before logos

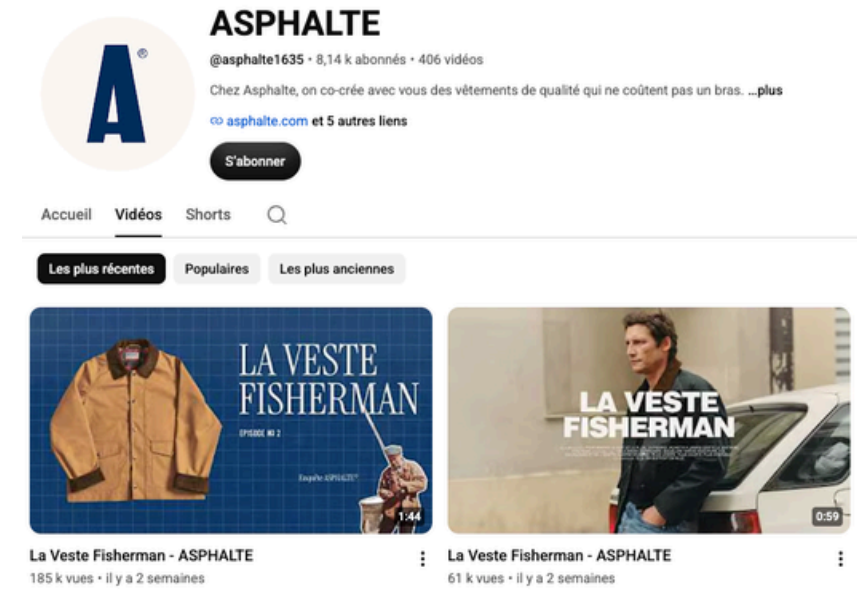

Evidence rather than promises

To be part of the culture

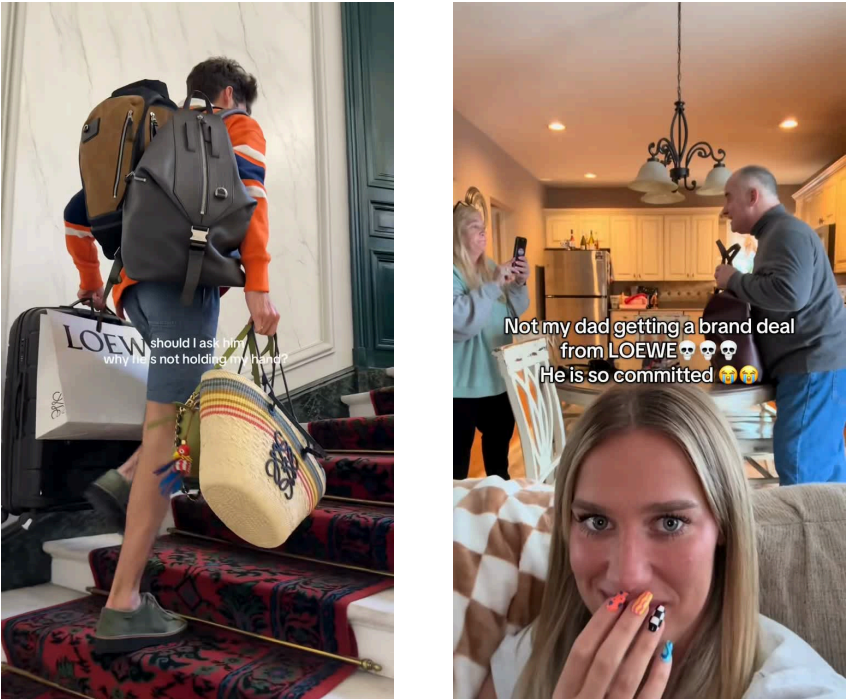

JACQUEMUS

ASPALTE

LOEWE

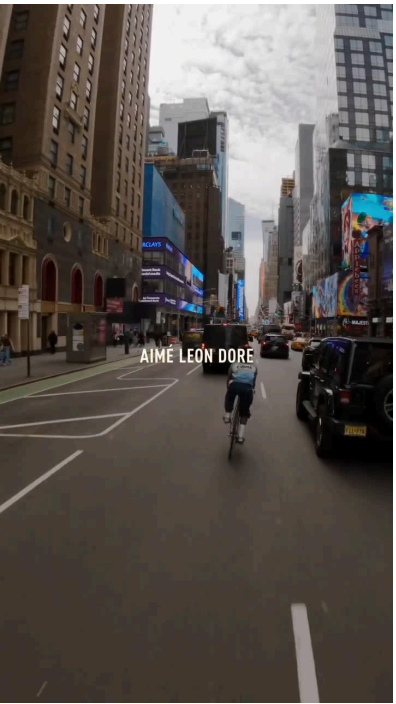

SÉZANE

POLENA

AIMÉ LEON DORE

THE 5 PRINCIPLES

CREATE FOR THE AUDIENCE
BEFORE CREATING FOR YOURSELF.

BE INTERESTING BEFORE
YOU ARE A SALESPERSON.

TO SHOW RATHER THAN TO ASSERT.

EMBRACING ONE'S
BRAND UNIVERSE

THINK MEDIA BEFORE
ADVERTISING.

The brands that succeed on social media in 2026 are the brands that truly think, create, and communicate like content creators.

THANKS.

crafted with love by utopia theutopia.fr

